ROSEBURG HOUSING NEEDS ANALYSIS

City of Roseburg Community Development Director Stuart Cowie and Planner Ricky Hoffman gave a brief presentation about Roseburg's upcoming Housing Needs Analysis and Buildable Lands Inventory. Key points included:

- Housing a priority - Roseburg City Council has identified housing as a priority area

- DLCD - Department of Land Conservation and Development is providing funding for Roseburg to hire a consultant to work with private firm EcoNW on this project. Project will look at housing stock, vacancy rates, available land, barriers to development, codes and more.
- Homelessness component - Roseburg also received $25,000 from the Ford Family Foundation to examine homelessness-related needs. A consultant will be hired for this aspect of the project and will work with UCAN to refine its Point-in-Time Homelessness Count.
- Policy - Housing Needs Analysis and Buildable Land inventory will inform future housing policy discussions
- Outreach - Cowie and Hoffman are seeking to connect with local service providers to learn more about housing and homelessness needs.

Discussion points with the group included:

- Homelessness definition - Cheryl Carson asked if the definition of homelessness is limited to people living on the street. Lance Colley said it is broader.
- OHCS - Wayne Ellsworth said Connor McDonnell of Oregon Housing and Community Services (OHCS) is planning to visit Roseburg to attend an HTAG meeting.
- Cow Creek Tribe - Justin Mathison offered to provide Roseburg with housing-related data compiled by the Cow Creek Tribe. The Tribe will soon have mitigation credits that it plans to sell.
- DHS data – Cheryl Carson offered to share numbers of people receiving SNAP/homelessness benefits in Douglas County. Lance asked if that could be broken down by census tract, noting that the analysis will focus on Roseburg’s urban growth boundary area.
- Housing list – A housing-resource list is available on the ESD website. UCAN also has a list, and there may be a link to one on Roseburg’s website.
- Public transit – Lance Colley said a more robust transit system would simplify housing for many folks who would be able to commute to work or school by bus.

ACTION: LPSCC Coordinator will share the Housing Subcommittee contact list with Cowie and Hoffman. Coordinator will also contact Connor McDonnell to invite him to attend a Subcommittee meeting in person and will obtain existing housing lists.
